

A message from Jim Arrigo

Chairman
National Dealer Council

Welcome to Degrees@Work™!

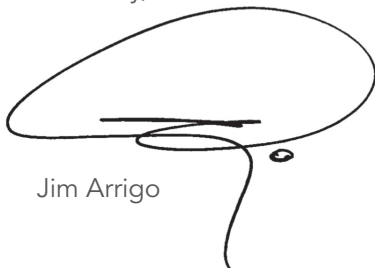

FCA Dealers have a proud tradition of helping others, earning community goodwill and investing in their employees. With the new Degrees@Work™ program offered by FCA in collaboration with Strayer University, you can help your employees start or advance a career – and work toward a college degree – at the same time. Whether your employees already have some college credit, a desire to deepen experience in a particular area, or just have a driving ambition to build a career and obtain a university education, Degrees@Work™ can help achieve both personal and professional goals.

Attracting new talent for our dealer network is often a challenge and for many talented, driven people a college education can be financially out of reach. Through the Degrees@Work™ program, participating FCA dealers can now offer a no-cost college education to prospective and current employees – who like you, have the ambition to work hard and succeed.

FCA Dealerships are great places to begin and develop successful, long-term professional careers. Becoming part of a multi-talented dealership team is both fast-paced and rewarding. With Degrees@Work™, dealers can attract needed talent, improve the skills of their employees and make an investment in future success for which they can truly be proud.

This program is exclusive to the FCA Dealer Network and I encourage you to take action now. We look forward to your personal and professional growth – and our collective mutual success.

Sincerely,

Jim Arrigo
